

An Army Golden Knights demonstrator drops in for opening ceremonies.

Clyde McGill, a visually impaired (medically retired) Airman 1st Class, gets instruction on the slopes from volunteers Beth Barry (l) and Tara Gorman (r).

DISABLED VETERANS

WINTER SPORTS CLINIC

Photos by Tech. Sgt. Cherrie Thurlby / 1st CTCS

Bill White, a disabled Marine Corps veteran, was one of hundreds who learned scuba techniques.

Participants learned how to play sled-hockey at the Lewis Ice Rink, at the Aspen Recreational Center. Others also learned how to rock climb.

A volunteer instructor helps a disabled veteran learn sit-ski techniques at the 19th National Disabled Veterans Winter Sports Clinic at Snowmass Village, Aspen, Colo., in April. The clinic is the largest annual disabled learn-to-ski clinic in the world, and sponsored by the Department of Veterans Affairs and Disabled American Veterans.

Online ★ <http://public.afca.af.mil/intercom.htm>

intercom ★ May 2005 23